THE PENNSYLVANIA CANTASS.

"A political bugaboo" is what The Philadelphia Press calls the Mysterious Pilgrim's Club. For stufting ballot-boxes, plundering tax-payers, and general deviltry, it is certainly the most lively bugaboo the world ever saw. We hope the Philadelphians don't intend to exhibit it at the Centennial next year.

Gov. Hartrauft may congratulate himself on his success in dodging the currency question. He has traversed the State from end to oud, speaking in every town he came to and, has never once explained or even hinted at his views on the leading issue in the campaign. And yet people talk of his soldier-like frankness!

Treasurer Mackey's banking institution in Philadelphia is said to be called the People's Bank because it is run chiefly with the people's money. According to an abstract from the Auditor-General's books, prepared by The Lancaster Intelligencer, about $400,000 is the average amount of State funds on deposit there.

Judge Pershing is a remarkably quiet candidate. He has not said a word in public since his nomina-tion, nor written anything for publication besides his letter of acceptance, and we believe no newspaper representatives, except THE TRIBUNE'S correspondent, has succeeded in getting him to express himself on the issues of the canvass.

GOOD MEN TO ELECT.

James W. Gerard, who is running in the VIIth Senatorial District, is a far better man than voters generally get a chance to cast their ballots for. Monheimer, his principal opponent, is uncrustworthy, and Gerard's election ought to be placed beyond peradven-

In the IXth Assembly District Dr. Benjamin F. Vosburgh seems to be the best candidate. He is a practicing physician and a man of excellent standing. He is a graduate of Union College and came to New-York from Kinderhook. He has not been known as a politician, and is of a better class of men than many of the candidates for such offices in that section of the city.

L. Bradford Prince has been a representative so long from Queens County, and has been returned so heartily by constituents of all shades of political faith, that it seems strange to find him running for Senator and having something of a contest. We believe no man has ever breathed a word against the purity of his legislative record. He has been singularly industrious and attentive to the slightest expressions of the wishes of his constituents. He deserves the promotion to the Schale, and will doubtless get it.

There are no better nominations on any of the tickets than those of D. C. Calvin for Surrogate and Peter B. Olney for District-Afterney. Calvin seems to have provoked no serious esposition, while his standing at the bar is thoroughly unexceptional, and his political record is that of a progressive Democrat, eager for the success of the liberal candidates and platform in 1872. Olney has the warm recommendation of genuine reformers like Charles O'Conor. He is the law partner of ex-Attorney-General Barlow, and has been a pronounced enemy of the Ring from the beginning.

F. S. Stallknecht, the Tammany candidate for Judge of the Marine Court, is as good a nomination as any party in the city ever gave us. Mr. Stallknecht is a native of the Island of Fuen, Denmark. He came to this country when a boy, entered Harvard College, where to leave during his Junior year Began life here as a cierk to leave during his Junior year pegan life here as a clock in a law office, and has been an active hawyer for over thirty years with a large German practice. His nomina-tion is indured by the Municipal Reform Association, by the Tax-payer's Association and by many other Ger-man organizations.

In the VIIth Senatorial District, Mr. Everett F. Wheeler ought by all means to be elected. He is an excellent man, the son of an old and respected lawyer, a graduate of the Free Academy, and himself a lawyer in good standing. He gains especial strength, however when the character of his oppenent is considered. Mr. Bixby, who is running against him, was the tool of Judge Cardozo and the associate of Gratz Nathan. A more thoroughly unsafe nomination could not be made, or one that more completely illustrates the character of the O'Brien and Morrissey Democracy. The only way to defeat Bixby is by electing Wheeler, and on this point there sught to be no doubt.

THE DRAMA-MUSIC.

LYCEUM THEATER.

JULIETTE CLARENCE. It was not unmeet that the tearful "Frou-From should recaler upon our stage in such mourabilly pluvial weather as that of Saturday night. It brought grief, and it found a public prepared for what it brought The French company at the Lyceum Theater gave it careful and satisfactory interpretation, and the scenic artists and carpenters gave it a neat and pretty setting upon the stage. The audience was quite numerous, notwithstanding the storm; and, though cold at first, it gradually became interested, and even enthusiastic, and rewarded Fron-Fron with the tribute of its pity and adwas, of course, the central figure of the occasion. She is a thoroughly good comedy actress-if the comedy be not much idealized. She is keenly intelligent, gliftering, im petnous, and fully possessed of freedom in action She showed a just and defeate artistic intuition and good training, I by merely indicating the character at ilrst, keeping consistently within its identity, and letting its traits broaden and its shadows despen as it was affected by the incidents of the plot. This, manifestly, is excellent method. The quality that Midame Clarence lacks—as indicated in this performance -is fascination. She is fitted for Pron-Fron in several particulars. She has the slender, willowy figure; the agile action; the volatile temperament; the resiless nervous activity; the habit of impetuous zeal in the pursuit of even the most frivial pleasures; the aspect of shallow levity; the felicitous mannerism of apparently spontaneous coquetry; and the heodless, reckiess, semi fast style. These attributes, uniting with an opulent taste for showy draws, make her tilberte, technically, an excellent embodiment. The glamour, however, was lacking Madame Clarence's personal beauty—an attribute most essential in this part—is of a wooden description, and she speaks in a thin, tart, unsympathetic voice. Writing descriptively-for American readers-we may say that she impressed us as being a sublimated Maggie Mitch ell: far more elegant, far better, as an actress in every way, but kindred in a certain per pery vitality, passionate volability, and raspiness of general condition. Madame Clarence is also, in another way, suggestive of a miniature Scebach-for about is aquiline, blonde, thin, excitable, and highly intel lectual. It will be perceived that we indicate an actres of strong individuality and indabitable talent. She is a better excentant, in the part of Pron-Fron, than any woman who has hitherto acted it here; but, as to the essential quality, we prefer the personation of it that has been made known by Miss Agnes Ethel. The entire piece, indeed, has been as well done here, in English, a it was done, on Saturday night, at the Lyceum, in Frenci -if we except the part of Brigard, which, as given by M Rippant, sensual, shallow, fashionable Sybatite and major the world. ## ENTERTAINMENTS TO-NIGHT.

Mr. Booth, at the Fifth Avenue Theater, will to-night act Richelieu. Miss Julia Mathews will begin at engagement at the Eagle Theater. An unknown actress Miss Helen Houghton, will make her first appearance of the New York stage, at the Bowery Theater, in a play of her own composition, based on Miss Braddon's novel of "A Strange World." The Mexican-Juvenile Opera Company will appear at the Lyceum Theater, and sing "La Grande Duchesse," New features will be introduced into the variety programme in the Olympic Theater. The Colosseum will be reopened, with an exhibition of the Prussian siege of Paris. "Led Astray" will be repeated. at the Union Square Theater," "The Overland Route," at Wallack's Theater, and "The Mighty Dollar," at the Park Theater. Changes of bill will be effected at Tony Paster's Theater, the San Francisco Minstrel Opera House, Josh Hart's Theater Comique, and B. W. Hitch sock's Third Avenue Theater.

PHILHARMONIC SOCIETY.

At the first concert of the Philharmonic Society, which takes place on the 18th inst., beside Bülow's "Julius Cæsar" Overture and the "Erolea Symphony, Mme. Falk-Auerbach, a well-known Baltimore planist, will play the Brahms Concerte, and one of Chopin's plane-forte compositions. Herr Wachtel will also sing the great Aria from the second act of "Rigo-'tted in the performance of that opera and a German song, "Liebes Botschaft," by Pfeffer. The La hner "Suite de Danse" will be played at the HOLY TRINITY ORGAN CONCERTS. On Wednesday afternoon, at the first of Mr. S. P. Warren's organ concerts, he will play, among other things, Liszt's great Prelude and Fugue on BACH, and Ritter's Fourth Organ Sonata, in A major, Mr. Warren will have the assistance of Miss Thursby, the talented young soprano, who will sing "Come unto Him," from the "Messiah," and "I will Extol Thee," from Sir Michael Costa's oratorio, " Eil."

THE NOXON CASE.

THE CHARGES SUSTAINED-THE DEFENSE OF MR. NOXON EXAMINED-STORY OF THE WORTHLESS

MORTGAGE.

To the Editor of The Tribune. SIR: The friends of the Hon. James Noxort, Republican nominee for Justice of the Supreme Court in this district, have published an elaborate reply to the charges affecting his integrity, which you published last week, and I beg leave to invite the particular attention of your readers to the nature of this defense. It is made with a great deal of warmth, but if you look at it closely you will see that it admits every material allegation in the letter of your correspondent, Z. L. W., to which it purports to be an answer.

The charge against Mr. Nexon is that in 1867, owing $22,000 trust funds to the Oakley estate, and being unable to pay, he induced the heirs to accept mortgages upon certain pieces of property in Onondaga County. One of these parcels of real estate consisted of 30 acres of land which he said he had purchased in 1864 of Mrs. Belle Cowles, and in a written memorandum or proposition of settlement which he submitted to the heirs he represented that the only lieu upon it was a mortgage of $2,000. Subsequently Noxon became bankrupt, and Mrs. Cowles brought suit against Noxon and the mortgagees to establish her vendor's hen. It then appeared that Noxon had bought the property in 1867, only five weeks before the execution of the mortgage, and not in 1864; that he had never paid any part of the purchase money ($15,000), and that there was a previous mortgage of $5,000. The incumbrances, therefore, were $20,000 instead of $2,000, and the mortgage was worthless. The Misses Oakley, your correspondent added, "were never able to recover a dollar." Now, what is the answer of Mr. Noxon's friends? First, they assert that THE TEIBUNE "willfully and corruptly suppressed" the fact that Mr. Noxon's mortgage covered other property besides this thirty acres, and that you sought to convey the impression that the Misses Oakley received no other security than the piece of land in question. This reply is entirely false. I need hardly remind you that the original charge was in the following words: "As the latter [Noxon] was unable to produce the money, he offered instead mortgages on property which he claimed to own in this city and county. Among this property was thirty acres of land in Onondoga County."-[N. Y. TRIBUNE, Oct. 25.] Secondly, they produce a certificate from the county clerk of transfer of thirty acres of land from Mrs. Cowles to Noxon in 1864. he supported himself by his own exertions, but was forced although it appeared in the course of the action growing out of the case in the Supreme Court that the sale was not made until May 13, 1866, five weeks (as you said) before the execution of the mortgage; the explanation of the discrepancy is, that although the deed was dated in 1867, it was not delivered then; the sale was really made, as appears from Judge Morgan's finding in the case of Cowles agt. Oakley and others, May 13, 1867, and Mr. Noxon never had possession of the property at any time. Thirdly, Mr. Noxon's friends show that he has paid off about $15,000 of the mortgage on the other pieces of property, leaving a large balance about the security for which I know nothing.

This is the whole defense; and what does it amount to? In the first place it is disingenuous, for it tells a falsehood about The Tribune's original charge, and it attempts to convey an erroneous impression about the date of the purchase of the property. Secondly, it admits that Mr. Noxon did give a mertgage to the Misses Oakley on property which he had not paid for, and that the property in reality never was his, and the security was worthless. It admits that in order to induce the heirs to accept this mortgage he made a written statement that there was a prior lien of only $2,000 on the lots, when there were actually four mortgages, amounting to $5,000, besides an equitable hen of $15,000, being the entire purchase money. It does not deny, and I suppose may be understood as admitting that the Oakleys, as their agent testified in court, never suspected these facts until they were made defendants, more than four years afterwards, in a suit by Mrs. Cowles toestablish her claim upon the property. The debt to Mrs. Cowles had grown by that time to $21,000, including interest. But Mr. Noxon's friends piecal that a part of the trust money has since been repaid from other sources. What difference does that make? It is equivalent to saying that Mr. Noxon gave three mortgages, and only one of them was worthless.

Now, however, at the eleventh hour, comes Mr. alsehood about The Tribune's original charge, and mortgages, and only one of them was wortness.

Now, however, at the eleventh hour, comes Mr.

Cowles, partner of Mr. Novon and husband of the Now, however, at the eleventh hoar, comes all. Cowles, partner of Mr. Noxon and husband of the lady above referred to, with an explanation of the unfortunate affair of the lots. Mr. Cowles states that in 1807 there was a project for establishing the Synches University near this piece of land, and in anticipation of a rise in value, Mr. Noxon was bargaining with certain persons in New-York to self them the Cowles lots at a handsome profit. These persons were to clear off all the inemabrances, except an investment mortgage of $2,000. The negotinitions were in progress at the time of the execution of the mortgage to the Oakleys, and were comeladed ten days after that transaction, and if the bargain had been carried out the representations of Mr. Noxon to his creditors would have been made as good as true, and everything would have come out right. But the speculation fell through; the university was built elsewhere; the lots declined in value, and Mr. Noxon allowed his false representations to stand. "Mr. Noxon had every reason to believe," says Mr. Cowles, "that the 30 acres were in substance, though not perhaps strictly in form, clear of all hens and incumbrances whatever, exocheve, says Mr. Cowles, "that the 30 acres were in substance, though not perhaps strictly in form, clear of all liens and incumbrances whatever, except the $52,000 assumed by his vendors"—a plea identical in substance though not perhaps strictly in form with the instituction of the defaulter who excuses bunself for taking the money of his employer to speculate with in Wall-st., on the ground that he means to put it back to-morrow.

RAISING CENTENNIAL FUNDS IN WYOMING. CHEYENNE, W. T., Oct. 31.-The Centennial meeting held at the Opera-house last evening was a de-cided success. Gov. John M. Thayer presided. Speeches were made by Gen. James S. Brisbin, the Rev. Mr. Con hick, and Judge Carey. Music was furnished by the 3d Cavalry band and the Chevenne Giec Cub. At the close of the meeting over one-fourth the quota of Centennial stock assigned to Wyoming Territory was taken.

THE LETTER OF CREDIT FORGERIES. The examination of Edward Hall, charged with attempting to pass forged letters of credit to the ex-tent of $20,000 on the Bank of British North America, was resumed on Saturday before Commissioner Osborn. Officers of that bank could not identify Hall as the person who offered the forged letters of credit, and Mr. Barrett, councel for the British Government, falled to produce a man by the name of Dixon, Hall's alleged partner. Col. Spencer then moved for the discharge of the accused, on account of failure to make out a case against blm, and the Commissioner granted the motion.

THE LOCAL CANDIDATES.

NOMINATIONS OF TAMMANY HALL AND ITS OPPONENTS. THE THREE TICKETS AS COMPLETED-ATTITUDE OF THE ANTI-TAMMANY DEMOCRATS TOWARD THE CANDL DATES FOR STATE OFFICES-AID EXPECTED BY THE CUSTOM-HOUSE LEADERS-RIVALS FOR SENATE AND

The local nominations by the various political bodies have now been made. In all the dis-The local nominations by the various political bodies have now been made. In all the districts Tammany has placed a full ticket in the field. For county officers the Republicans and anti-Tammany Democrats have unified on one ticket. For Senators, Assemblymen, Civil Justices, and Aldermen, there have been combine, tions made in some districts by the Republicans and the Democratic opponents of Tammany Hall, and in others cach organization has put forward candidates. In two districts the anti-Custom-House Republicans have made nominations for the Assembly and Aldermen, and in two others the Liberal Republicans have nominated candidates. The anti-Tammany Democrats have not formally approved the Democratic State ticket. It is understood, however, that in the majority of districts they will run the Democratic State ticket out of their boxes, especially in Democratic districts. It is probable, however, that there is an understanding with the Custom-house leaders that the Republican State ticket is to receive all the aid that can be given it in a quiet way by the anti-Tammany managers. The latter say that their fight is a local one; that their only object is to break down Tammany Hall under its present management, and that everything else is made subservient to that purpose. It is for this say that their fight is a local one; that their only object is to break down Tammany Hall under its present management, and that everything else is made subservient to that purpose. It is for this reason that they have combined with the Republicans. Their treatment at Syracuse, they claim, releases them from all obligations of allegiance to the Democratic State ticket, and while they will furnish it, together with the combination county and district tickets, to all who may desire it, they will not make special efforts to increase the majority for the State nominees. In the various Senatorial and Assembly districts the Anti-Tammany leaders state that in several instances they have placed in nomination candidates without any hope of electing them, but to help the combination ticket. In other districts they profess to hope to run in their candidate between the Tammany and Anti-Tammany candidates. In the 19th, John Fox is pitted against John Morrissey, and in the VHIth, Everett P. Wheeler against Francis M. Bixby. In each case the Anti-Tammany candidate counts on the support of the Republican voters as well as on that of his own organization. In this expectation the nominees are likely to find themselves mistaken. In the lower district the adherents of Fox say that they have already secured a considerable portion of the Republican vote, and in the upper district the Republican voters are too intelligent to be bound by a bargain of their leaders, and will largely vote for the man whom they believe to be the best candidate, regardless of party affiliations. There is expected to be very much "scratching" at the coming election. The strength of the independent vote cannot be computed with accuracy, but, according to the way it is east, not alone on the county ticket, but in very many of the Senatorial, Assembly, and Civil Junitee districts, it will elect or defeat the exclidates. The following table gives a complete list of the candidates of the Tammany Democrats, the Republicans, and Anti-Tammany Democrats:

A REMARKABLE CARD.

Sin: The memory of my own loss forces more strongly than perhaps upon others the prodigious efforts now being made by Mr. Phelps to convict mander-

ers. My attention has been called particularly to the trial of the man who killed Mr. Noe, and I see that great credit is given to Mr. Phelps for being so carnest in his prosecution. I wonder if it ever occurs to him how he reated the man who murdered my husband? My hus band was mardered by a man named Cunningham in March last. It was with great difficulty I could get the detective from the District-Altorney's office to arrest the murderer at for he was backed by rich liquor deniers. He was finelly indicted. I saw Mr. Phelps and he promised to do every titing he could. My lawyer went with me to his office and saw a Mr. Clark, and told him to let me know when the case would be tried and I would bring my witnesses. This was done twice. After all, Mr.

Phelps allowed his man Lyons to try the case when nonof my witnesses were there, and of course Cambighan was acquited. I know I ought not to be excited, but should forgive my enemies, but I cannot help thinking if my husband had been as rich as Mr. Noe, and it had seen nearly election time, his death would have been

Workmen are putting timbers into the shaft, which will be ready for the machinery by Wednesday which will be ready for the machinery by Wednesday next. The cages have been raised from the Consolidated Virginia shaft. It is believed that in three weeks time the machinery will be ready and work will be going on again. The water in the mines below the 1,550-500 level is steadily going down. The Optim Company have made arrangements with the Cholia-Polosi Company for the use of the engines and holisting works of the later, and they will be put in position at once. It is confidently expected that the work of holisting ore will begin in about I eventy days. Money-man and stockholders here take a cheerful view of the situation. Embling is going on resulty. The burned district is dotted with shartless. Work is plently, wages are high, and the people are recovering their spirits. Beliet is coming in freely, and as soon as provisions and money become plently, no more aid will be mested. The town will be all right in a week or two. CONFLAGRATION AT QUEENS, L. L. About 11:30 p. m. on Friday a fire was discovered in the timber shed attached to the carriage manufactory of Thomas Callister at Queens, L. L. When first seen the fire had evidently been burning only a few moments, but the strong south-east wind fanner the flames, which spread with rapidity to the factory, a large building in which were the blacksmith, paint, and wheelwright shops, and the repository for finished work. Wheelwright shops, and the factory were several wagons, few of which were saved, the building and almost its entire contents being destroyed. From the factory the flames communicated with the dwelling, saloon, and bakery of Charles Schmidt, which, together with his barn, were totally destroyed. Three tenement houses adjoining, owned by Mr. Callister, were also destroyed with a tenement owned by Benjamin Lame, and the horse-shede attached to his hotel. The hotel itself was several times on fire, but was saved by firemen from Jamaica. The dwelling-houses of John Henderson and Mrs. Neat were next destroyed, and here the progress of the fire was finally stayed. The total loss is about $70,000. Mr. Callister's loss is $20,000 on building and stock. He has only $4,000 or $5,000 instrance. Mr. Schmidt loss on buildings and stock $5,000; partially meatred. Mr. Henderson's loss on house and furniture is $800; that of fise Brosn estate, $1,000, and Mr. Lane's about $200. The buildings burned composed nearly the entire bandet, and the fire was no doubt the work of an incendiary. This department was filled with new work, and in the

AT THROGE'S NECK, WESTCHESTER COUNTY. The First Presbyterian Church at Throgg's Neck was destroyed by fire early on Saturday morning. The flames were first discovered in the tower. None of The names were his used, but the firemen succeeded in removing the organ, libraries, and funiture from the lecture-room and the pastor's study. The buildings were Gothic and built entirely of wood, without plastering in-side or out, and within the past few weeks extendive re-pairs have been made. The origin of the fire is unknown. The loss will be about $15,000, on which there is no in-surance of $7,500.

IN BROOKLYN, E. D.

A fire, supposed to have originated from an aproperly protected stove, occurred about 3 a.m. on saturday in the two story wooden house at No. 27 Bremen-st., near Adams st., Brooklyn, E. What Wm. M. Peck says of 15te Type-Writer or WRITING MACHILSE:

New York City, March 23, 1875.

No. 55 East One hundred-and-twenty-eighth-st.

DENSMORE, York & Co.
GENTLEMIN: I have had the "Type-Writer" in daily use ever since hat Christmas, at the rate of about three hours a day on the average, and I must say that I consider it one of the greatest inventions of the age. The machine has kept in perfect working order all that time, and continues to work beautifully. I am putting down these works at he rate of ferty to fifty amounte, and you know that I have not had the machine three months yet. At a test I can write from unnery to a hundred a mainte-when much roused by the painful situation in which my imagination cometines places my fettifous characters—perhages. I reach a speed of one hindred and twenty words a minute, and with a correctness of execution that surprises myself. With great pleasage I am able to assert line your Type-Writer is one of the greatest helps to literary men ever—not dreamed of—but invented. If I could not procure another I would not part with this for a thousand dollars—no, not for five thousand, for it is to me both a money-maker and a great means of recreation. Wishing you great and continued success, I am yours sincerely.
